Manager Summary

> “Priya’s product judgment is consistently strong, and the billing launch was a genuine cross-functional win. Tightening communication formats is a polish item, not a real concern.” — Jonathan Reyes, Product Manager

Key Strengths

- Owned the billing platform overhaul from discovery through launch, cited by Finance as the smoothest cross-functional launch of the year.
- Strong user-research discipline; every major decision this half was backed by at least one round of customer validation.

- Effective at saying no — kept the Q1 roadmap scoped tightly despite significant stakeholder pressure to add scope mid-cycle.

Areas for Growth

- Priya’s written specs are thorough but sometimes long; a shorter executive-summary format would help time-constrained stakeholders.
- Could bring Engineering into discovery conversations slightly earlier to surface technical constraints sooner.

Goals for Next Review Period

1. Pilot a one-page exec-summary format for the next two specs.
2. Include an engineering representative in customer discovery sessions starting next sprint.
3. Define success metrics for the billing platform 6 months post-launch and report back.

Compensation & Advancement Notes

Priya is being considered for promotion and/or a merit increase above the standard band this cycle, subject to calibration with the broader Product leadership team and final budget approval.
